

The Connecticut Efficient Healthy Homes Initiative

Do you know that there is a Healthy Homes Initiative in your town?

The Connecticut Efficient Healthy Homes Initiative (CTEHHI) is a statewide, collaborative effort of the United Illuminating (UI) Company, Connecticut Light & Power, the Energy Efficiency Fund, and a network of community partners.

What services do they provide?

The Initiative provides no to low-cost weatherization, energy efficiency and health and safety improvements to income eligible residents through CTEHHI (Pamphlet attached)

But what is it really worth?

With an average value of up to $9,750 per home, CTEHHI can install things like

- Compact fluorescent light bulbs (CFLs)
- Water- and energy-saving faucet aerators and showerheads
- Insulation and appliance upgrades
- Heating and cooling system evaluation
- Smoke and carbon monoxide detectors
- Kitchen and bath ventilation
- Lead paint, asbestos, and mold assessment with some remediation

Who should you tell about this Initiative?

- Homeowners and rental property owners
- Low-income renters
- Everyone!

Encourage them to contact the Initiative to see what services they qualify for under this program.
